

Alexandre Lapillonne – Short Bio

Prof. Dr. Alexandre Lapillonne is Professor of Pediatrics at Paris Descartes University and Head of the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit at Necker-Enfants malades University Hospital in Paris. He also serves as Adjunct Professor of Pediatrics at the Children's Nutrition Research Center, Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, Texas.

With extensive training in pediatrics, nutrition, and neonatology, Prof. Dr. Lapillonne's research centers on nutrition in preterm infants and rare diseases. He has authored over 270 scientific articles and numerous book chapters, and is recognized for his leadership in international scientific societies, including the European Society for Pediatric Research and the European Society for Clinical Nutrition and Metabolism (ESPEN). Prof. Lapillonne regularly serves as an expert for organizations such as the World Health Organization and the FAO's Codex Alimentarius.