

Miniature donkey

Equus asinus

Fun facts

- Miniature donkeys come from the islands of Sicily and Sardinia.
- They come in various shades of grey, brown, tan and black. They might also have light coloured spots on their bodies or muzzles.
- Miniature donkeys are completely domesticated as a breed. They are friendly and loyal creatures who will form attachments to their caregivers, just like dogs and cats.
- Miniature donkeys are herbivores and like eating grasses and grains. They will also eat hay if they are being raised on a farm.
- Miniature donkeys have been bred for work, so they can pull carts and transport goods, just like their bigger cousins. They simply do it in smaller quantities!

